A FORGERY BRANDED.—We clip the following from the New York Tribune:

To the Editor of the New York Tribune:

"SIR: On my return home from the session of November 10, I find nearly a hundred Democratic papers from all sections of the Union, sent me by my friends, containing a vile and scurrilous speech against foreigners, said to have been delivered by me in 1854 or 1855, and which appears to have been published, simultaneously and by concert, North and South, East and West, in the closing weeks of the recent canvass.

"I need not refer to this wicked and malignant libel, now that the election is over, were it not that, having been so extensively published from Maine to Nebraska, and vouched for as authentic by editors who were supposed to value their character for veracity, some honest persons of one party or the other, whose good opinions I value, might suppose it possibly true.

"Allow me therefore, to say, as I did publicly in this State last month, when this calumny against me first appeared, that it is, in every word and syllable, a forgery; that I never uttered such sentiments in 1854 nor in any other year, and that the vulgar and scurrilous language embodied in it never fell from my lips, nor were written by my pen, in that or any other connection, on that or any other theme.

"Precisely this same speech was printed by the Democratic papers in this State a number of years ago, and then attributed to Mr. Wilson, who was a Republican candidate for Congress; but, having been thus used with effect in one campaign, it was revamped in the recent canvass, with my name attached to it, by the same editors, every one of whom knew that it was impossible for me to use such vile language in a speech on any subject.

"It will doubtless be used against some other Republican candidate hereafter, and I have felt it therefore a duty to expose its history and its fallacy.

Yours truly,
"SCHUYLER COLFAX.
"South Bend, Ind., Nov. 14, 1868."

A GOOD WORD FROM THE ENEMY.—A writer in the Old Guard, an intensely rebel political journal, writing in December 1865, pays the following tribute to General Grant.

"The march of the Confederate commander was rapid. On the 3d of July, he was at Martinsburg, and drove Sigel into Maryland. On the 8th of July, he was at Monocacy, near Frederick City, and had defeated General Wallace in a battle of great fury. On the afternoon of the 11th of July, as we have said, his troops came in sight of Washington.

This march was a vigorous one. Considering the condition of the weather, it was tremendous. Under the burning sun of July, the men had trampled on steadily, scarce pausing at night; and thousands could not keep up, and hundreds dropped by the way; there at last was the long coveted dome of the Capitol in sight; under those roofs, Presidents, heads of departments, citizens, were trembling for the safety of the city.

Such had been Lee's great Coup de main to deplete Grant's army. He was hemmed in at Petersburg, but one hundred and fifty miles from that great arena, voices called upon General Grant for succor against impending destruction from the great adversary in his front.

The blow failed, the reader will say. Yes, but it very nearly succeeded—nearly accomplished a double object. Washington narrowly escaped capture. Grant narrowly escaped a peremptory order from the President of the United States to evacuate his lines at Petersburg, and return to the defense of the capital.

That was the moment when a single trait of the Federal commander—his cool and stubborn nerve—was worth to his government a thousand millions. He clung to his earthworks still, in front of Lee, only a sending small detachment. And that detachment arrived in time, and was sufficient.

EXILED ISABELLA.—A Paris correspondent gives the following sad account of the present condition of the unfortunate ex Queen of Spain:

While I am among figures let me give you a few pertaining to Isabella of Bourbon. She arrived in Paris last Friday and is staying at the Pavillion de Rohan, where she pays 11,000f. of rent a month. She will stay there two or three months, awaiting the furnishing of a hotel in the Champs Elysees, the lease of which she has taken to the tune of 70,000f. a year. These figures make one sad; with tearful eyes one cannot but pity the sad position of Madame de Bourbon, thus reduced to eat the bitter bread of exile.

There was a tough pull between Massachusetts and Kentucky as to which would give the larger majority, the former for Grant or the latter for Seymour, with the following result:

Massachusetts, Grant	136,379
Massachusetts Seymour	59,103
Majority for Grant	77,276
Kentucky, Seymour	115,889
Kentucky, Grant	39,569
Majority for Seymour	76,320
Massachusetts ahead	956

A LARGE DISTILLERY.—There is a distillery at Calistoga, Napa county, California, which makes brandy from grapes, and which is crushing all the fruit of that portion of the valley. The establishment has thirty tanks of a capacity of three thousand gallons each. It has worked up this year about seven hundred tons of grapes, and it is being enlarged to a capacity of three thousand tons for next season's operations.

Of the $201,476,000 of registered bonds issued during the last fiscal year, nearly twenty seven millions were in exchange for coupon bonds. The amount of currency, United States notes, and coupons destroyed during the last fiscal year was one hundred and forty-seven millions of dollars. An average of 3,500 pounds of legal tender and fractional currency are destroyed by maceration once in ten days.

Affairs in Texas.

TERRIBLE OUTRAGES.

The following is the report of Major General Reynolds, as Commander of the Fifth Military District

HEADQUARTERS FIFTH MILITARY DISTRICT, }
STATE OF TEXAS, }
AUSTIN, Nov. 4, 1868. }

Adjutant General of the United States Army, Washington, D. C.:

GENERAL—I have the honor to forward herewith a tabular statement of expeditions, scouts, report of movements of the various regiments serving in this district for the year ending September 30, 1868:

Armed organizations, generally known as "Ku Klux Klan," exist, independently, or in concert with other armed bands, in many parts of Texas, but are most numerous, bold and aggressive east of the Trinity River.

The precise objects of these organizations cannot be readily explained, but seems, in this State, to be to disarm, rob, and in many cases, murder Union men and negroes, and as occasion may offer, murder United States officers and soldiers; also, to intimidate every one who knows anything of the organization, but who will not join it.

The civil law east of the Trinity River is almost a dead letter. In some counties, the civil officers are all, or a portion of them, members of the Klan. In other counties, where the civil officers will not join the Klan, or some other armed band, they have been compelled to leave their counties; examples are Van Zandt, Smith and Marion counties—the county seat of the latter is Jefferson.

In many counties where the county officers have not been drawn off, their influence is scarcely felt. What political end, if any, is aimed at by these bands I cannot positively say, but they attend in large bodies the political meetings (barbecues) which have been held and are being held in parts of the State under the auspices of the Democratic clubs of the different counties.

The speakers encourage the attendance, and in several counties men have indicated by name from the speaker's stand those selected for murder. The men thus pointed out have no course left them but to leave their homes, or be murdered on the first convenient opportunity.

The murder of negroes is so common as to render it impossible to keep an accurate account of them.

Many of the murders of these bands of outlaws are transient persons in the State. The absence of railroads and telegraphs and the great length of time required to communicate between remote points facilitating their devilish purposes. These organizations are evidently countenanced, or at least not discountenanced, by the majority of the white people of the counties where the bands are most numerous. They could not otherwise exist.

I have given this matter close attention, and am satisfied that a remedy to be effective must be gradually applied, and combined with the firm support of the army, until these outlaws are punished or dispersed. They cannot be punished by the civil courts until some examples of military commissions show that men can be punished in Texas for murder and kindred crimes. Perpetrations of such crimes have not, heretofore, except in very rare instances, been punished in the State at all.

Free speech and free press, as the terms are generally understood in other States, have never existed in Texas.

In fact, the citizens of other States cannot appreciate the state of affairs in Texas without actually experiencing it. The official reports of lawlessness and crime, so far from being exaggerated, do not tell the whole truth.

Jefferson is the centre from which most of the trade, traffic and lawlessness of Eastern Texas radiates, and at this point, or its vicinity, there should be stationed a regiment of troops. The recent murder of Jefferson, of Hon. G. W. Smith, a delegate to the Constitutional Convention, has made it necessary to order more troops to that point.

This movement w[illegible] the frontier posts to such an extent as to impair their efficiency for protection against the Indians, but the bold, wholesale murdering in the interior of the State seems at present to present a more urgent demand for troops than Indian depredations. The frontier posts should, however, be reinforced if possible, as it is not improbable that the Indians from the Northwest, after having suffered defeat there, will make heavy incursions into Texas.

To restore measurable peace and quiet in Texas, will require, for a long time, that troops be stationed at many county seats until, by their presence, and aid if necessary, the civil law can be placed in the hands of reliable officers, and executed. This will be the work of years, and will be fully accomplished only by an increase of population.

I am, General, very respectfully, your obedient servant, J. J. REYNOLDS,
Brevt. Maj. Gen. U. S. Army Commanding.

THE TOMB OF NAPOLEON III.—A correspondent in Paris writes the following to the New York Post:

"We walked over to the Invalides, on Friday, the 13th, and surveyed the splendid tomb of Napoleon. It seems to me singular that the present Emperor is preparing a vault for the receipt of his mortality (the biggest part of him) at St. Denis, amid what Bourbon bones were left by the revolutionists there. Instead of trying to have the Emperors considered a new set of rulers, with different theories of their own relation to the people, he enforces the idea that they are a continuation of the monarchy. Everywhere this is obvious, in the public works, in the museums and palace decorations. They all say to the French people, 'Louis XIV reigned over you, Louis XVI reigned over you, and now I, Napoleon III, am reigning over you.'

"If buried in the Invalides, he would have to be put in a corner, and that he doubtless cannot brook. But this grave at St. Denis is a mine under his throne."

A man who is a "snob" by nature remains a "snob," even on a throne. But is he not, if a Napoleon, Napoleon the little?

THE RICHMOND ASSASSINATION.—H. H. Rives Pollard, the editor of the Richmond, Va., Southern Opinion, who was assassinated in that city, was a son of Major Richard Pollard, formerly an officer in the United States navy, and brother of Edward A. Pollard, the well known Southern defender and historian.

Rives Pollard was born in Nelson county, Va., was for some time an employe of the postoffice department at Washington, and when the war broke out was news editor of the Baltimore Sun. During the war he was associate editor of the Richmond Examiner, subsequently started the Richmond Times, and in 1867 he established the Southern Opinion. He was about thirty-four years old.

James Grant, the assassin, is about twenty four years old, of one of the first families in Richmond, and during the war was a staff officer of the rebel Gen. J. E. B. Stuart.

Pollard had made himself and his paper very unpopular in Richmond by his scurrilous attacks, and scandalous stories like that which provoked his murder, and public sympathy and approval is almost entirely with Grant.

Pollard's paper will be continued by J. M. Hanna, who was within five feet of him at the time he was shot.

A SIGNIFICANT DEATH.—We see it announced that the Charleston Mercury has suspended publication. There could scarcely be a more suggestive fact. The Mercury has always been the organ of the aristocracy of the South, and has always represented the extreme sentiment of Southern slave-driving aggrandizement. Before the war it was the earnest enemy of the Union. During the war it championed the harshest measures; and since peace it has been the implacable foe of every honest attempt at reconstruction. Edited by a member of the noted family of Rhett, it has fully represented every principle of which the Rhetts have so long been intrepid and consistent advocates. Its suspension, therefore, indicates that the "aristocracy" is dead; that the "First Families" of the South can no longer support an organ; and that as a political fact, their empire is past. We are sorry for Mr. Rhett, and for the suspension of his enterprise; but the death of the Charleston Mercury is a sure sign of the dissolution of all that remains of the proud and exclusive class that dwelt for so many years in South Carolina, and reigned over the whole Republic.—*N. Troops in the Southern States

In his late report Gen[illegible] Grant [illegible] kes the terse remark that troops are still [illegible] led in the Southern States and [illegible] sends in with his report the reports [illegible] which furnish pro[illegible] [illegible]. [illegible] reports are uniform in [illegible] the presence of troops in the Southern States [illegible] the only thing which prevents [illegible] break [illegible] of the rebel classes against the Union men and freedmen and that even the presence of soldiers is not by any means a full protection. Outrages are of daily occurrence, in spite of the efforts of the military to preserve the peace

We have heretofore published extracts from the report of Gen Thomas which show that the lawless element in Kentucky and Tennessee is violent and aggressive. In Kentucky there is no class of people under restraint for acts committed during the rebellion a circumstance which shows that the reconstruction acts have not as is often alleged produced these disorders in the South. These acts of violence grow out of a spirit of vindictiveness which has been fostered and inflamed by the Northern Democrats. The ex rebels have been taught to believe that they were to rule the country and out of this idea has sprung the violence which they have manifested.

Gen Rousseau's testimony as to the state of affairs in Louisiana must silence the accusers who throw all the blame of the disorders upon the 'Radicals.' This commander's Democratic proclivities are well known and he says in his report that he has not troops enough to keep the peace, and that only the surrender by the Republicans of the right to vote in the Presidential election averted general bloodshed. He admits that the Republicans were not allowed to vote, but says he was powerless to protect them. His report shows that the Union men of the State are helpless, and that unless troops are kept there for the present, life and property will be wholly insecure.

The report of Gen Reynolds, elsewhere published in this paper, reveals a deplorable condition of affairs in Texas. It is only necessary for any one to read that report to satisfy him of the truth of Gen Grant's remark that "troops are still needed in the Southern States". But the fact that troops are still a [illegible] there proves nothing, as the New York Times remarks, as against the policy of the General Government. The Democratic averment that Reconstruction is a failure be[illegible] the military is essential to the maintenance of order, is absurd. The lawlessness of Kentucky can have no connection with reconstruction, it is simply the product of local [illegible]. Texas has not yet undergone reconstruction; the ruffianly element which displays [illegible] there is in antagonism to the authority of the National Government. In Ar[illegible] and Louisiana the same element works in somewhat different circumstances. Everywhere the dregs of the rebellion are fermenting, and will ferment until lawful authority [illegible] them out. This, however, reflects in no way upon Reconstruction. To make that re[illegible] for Ku-Klux outrages, would be as wise and just on one side, as would be an in[illegible] against the whole body of Southern whites on the other. The policy of Congress may be a pretext for murder and robbery, but it is not the cause. These crimes spring from the remaining forces of the rebellion, and the Government will not complete its duty until it shall have crushed them out of existence. Till this be done, it were futile to attempt any [illegible] of the military force at present [illegible] in the South.

[illegible] BLOWS."—On Tuesday last Col. Chapman gave notice in an editorial in the Herald that he was preparing an address to Gov. Woods, and on Wednesday another [illegible] followed which we take to be the article that was promised. It is conceived in the Colonel's best style, and is composed of about equal parts of meek-mannered rhetoric and threatening rodomontade. The writer with much blarney and smooth speech first "advises" the Governor to call a special session, and next proceeds to utter dark and terrible threats unless the Governor does it. He says: "It will be better for him and the [illegible] that he should do it than that others should. Because we give notice to the Governor that this State is entitled to a Legislative branch, and that the people are determined to have it." The people are not at all concerned about the matter, it is only such broken down political hacks as Col Chapman, who have been spurned and repudiated by the people they failed to serve in the Legislature, that are making any noise about it. The writer remarks that "the people of Oregon are terribly down on secessionists." Yes and that is the reason why his party could not win a victory in Oregon until it was reinforced by [illegible] and rebels from Missouri. The people of Oregon, or a large portion of them, are also "terribly down on" those [illegible] Democratic spirits who lately assumed in the Oregon Legislature, to annul the Constitution of the United States, and this is why Multnomah county gave a large Republican majority a few weeks ago. If these fellows think they can scare anybody into measures just let them go on with the play. As Col Chapman appears to have full swing in the editorial columns of the Herald, he will have a good opportunity to blow off his surplus wind without injuring anybody. We only caution him to beware of another intellectual encounter with Dr Jim.

WANT TO REPUDIATE.—Both the Democratic papers of this city are now out squarely in favor of national repudiation. They may as well take that course as any; for their party will be powerless to direct the policy of the country. The Commercial prints a letter from Umatilla county, in which an admiring patron tells the editor "to put into the paper as much repudiation as you please." The editor also felicitates himself upon the fact that his party is more generally adopting the idea of repudiation than when the subject was first broached. Then the Herald uttered a cry of horror; now, the same paper adopts the doctrine. Go on, neighbors, you are in a fair way to remain in a very unhealthy minority.

GREAT OUTRAGE. The Government plans a tax upon its timber to prevent unscrupulous persons from stealing it,—or in other words, charges stumpage for timber cut on the public lands. The Commercial deems this an outrage, and calls it "another tax upon the poor man." Is it a tax on the poor man to prevent him from stealing? We never knew that a poor man had a better right than another to take a thing that does not belong to him. But our neighbor seems to think differently. Is this idea of his a sample of Democratic morality?

The Farmer and the Manufacturer

An able [illegible] journal truly says: "That which [illegible] all agriculture [illegible] is the multiplication of markets. Its greatest need [illegible] that of a non-agricultural population. What is it that presents itself to view in our forest [illegible]? A people thinly scattered and almost entirely rural, not working within reach of a market, consuming on the spot their small productions, with few or no towns, no industry and no commerce beyond that which is strictly necessary for satisfying the limited wants of their inhabitants. On manufacturing departments, on the other hand, are by far the best cultivated, and for that reason the most productive. [illegible] agriculture has proved her ability to [illegible] by [illegible] means but in an equal degree the wonders of English husbandry. [illegible]"

This is a forcible statement of the necessity of a home market for agricultural products and of the true way of bringing such a market into existence. Manufactures and agriculture must go hand in hand. Manufacturing establishments bring the needed market to the very doors of our agriculturists, and a great community thrives as it has these industries in conjunction.

The sagacious Franklin, writing from London in 1771, pointed out to his American countrymen this fact and endeavored to impress it upon them. He said: "Every manufacture encouraged in our country makes part of a market for provisions within ourselves and saves so much money to the country as must otherwise be exported to pay for the manufactures he supplies. Here in England it is well known and understood that wherever a manufacture is established which employs a number of hands it raises the value of land in the neighboring country all around it. It seems, therefore, the interest of our farmers and owners of land to encourage our young manufactures in preference to foreign ones."

These illustrations render the wants of our own State clear. They point out the best and only profitable method of obtaining a steady market for our agricultural products. The interests of the farmer and the manufacturer stand thus intimately related.

Those Veterans

The Salem concern discusses the issue between the OREGONIAN and the "mercenary brigade" in the following highly convincing manner:

> Though not perhaps wearing the insignia of rank these same veterans will still wage the mighty war of human liberty, and though not perhaps, wearing the epaulet and cord, will still be found upon the most advanced posts with gun and knapsack, making still more bright the history of our great and glorious party while this fledgeling will silently sip the beef broth of his own cooking.

Was the "veteran" Indian Superintendent "waging the mighty war of human liberty" and "upon the most advanced posts with gun and knapsack, making still more bright the history of our great and glorious party" when in February, 1866, he was telegraphing at large through the State to get the names of prominent men to endorse Johnson's apostacy, with a view of assisting that recreant President in his effort to destroy the Republican party? Was Dr Bayley engaged in this same struggle, and on the most advanced posts with the same tools of warfare, adding greater lustre to the history of the Republican party when, in September, 1866, he voted in the Legislature, to which he had been elected by the suffrages of Republicans, against the Fourteenth Amendment, to defeat which was to overthrow the Republican party and place the country under the control of the rebel Copperhead alliance? Were other men in this State, office-holders and others, doing duty with 'gun and knapsack' in behalf of the Republican party when they took part in and encouraged the Johnson movement? Or, instead of being on the advanced posts with their metaphorical weapons during the last three years, have they not all—including the Superintendent—been sitting astride of the political fence, "sipping their hell broth," and waiting to see what the final issue of the struggle would be?

The Majorities

The majorities for President, so far as we have been able to collate them, are stated below

	Grant		Seymour
Maine	28 036	New York	9 963
New Hampshire	7 147	New Jersey	2 [illegible]
Vermont	32 122	Delaware	1 [illegible]
Massachusetts	57 276	Louisiana	11 44[illegible]
Rhode Island	6 448	Kentucky	76 [illegible]
Connecticut	3 043	Georgia	4 [illegible]
Pennsylvania	28 898	Maryland	31 883
Ohio	41 190	Oregon	164
Indiana	10 146
Illinois	51 150		182 777
Minnesota	15 549
Nebraska	4 200
South Carolina	17,183
Wisconsin	24 298
Alabama	4 280
Michigan	30 855
California	506
Iowa	46 270
Kansas	16 340
	465 062

The States of Tennessee Missouri West Virginia, North Carolina and Nevada will add about 80,[illegible] to [illegible]'s majority. On the whole vote of the Union Grant's majority is therefore about 350,000.

SMALL POX IN SAN FRANCISCO.—The Health Officer's report shows that 1,110 persons have been attacked with small pox in San Francisco, of whom 398 or 35 per cent died. One in 135 of the whole population has taken the disease and but 7 915 persons or one in 19 have been vaccinated.

THE FOLLY OF THE LATE LEGISLATURE.—Under the heading of, The Oregon Ku Klux, the Sacramento Union makes the following remarks in regard to the folly of the Democratic majority in our Legislature:

> [illegible] of the Oregon Democratic legislature was very [illegible] rebuked by the House of Representatives in the resolution sending back the superior gallery criticisms of the former as [illegible] impertinent and indecorous. If the [illegible] were on the other foot even the Democratic [illegible] might probably see the matter in the same light. Suppose Congress had sent a similar insolent criticism upon the acts of the Oregon Legislature how would it have been received by the irrepressibles of that body? There has been too much of this going out of their own province on the part of State Legislatures. They generally have more in their legitimate sphere to attend to than they do well, and there is no occasion for their members exhausting their energies in profound reflection or passionate invective regarding topics belonging exclusively to the National Legislature. The time usually devoted to [illegible] speeches in such bodies is all sheer waste at the expense of the public. Much less does it become one body of legislators to speak officially of the acts of another Legislature whether of another State or of the nation in the tone and temper of the bar room. It may be questioned whether there is any propriety in such criticism, even if made in the most decorous manner. In this particular case the rebuke was richly deserved for the action calling it forth was as silly as it was vulgar. It is probable indeed, that after such small minded and insulting conduct the Oregon Democrats may find it extremely lucky that they have at Washington Senators so loyal, so able and so gentlemanly as Williams and Corbett.

The Rev Mr Nasby intimates that President Johnson would be an acceptable candidate for the Spanish throne, because he has all his life been putting the Bourbon down.

Grant and the Politicians

(Dispatch to the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph)

WASHINGTON, Dec [illegible]

There is one class of men whom Grant [illegible] regards with suspicion. This is the politicians. With [illegible] of others he has [illegible] derived the impression that the professional politician is a danger as an acquaintance, at least that the less he has to do with him the better. He [illegible] in their society as an honest unsophisticated [illegible] would feel in the company of Wall street [illegible] and gamblers. Anybody who has ever seen him [illegible] elsewhere [illegible] three or four politicians [illegible] at once [illegible] he was [illegible] chief their departure [illegible] remarkable [illegible] when his troops were in the thickest of the fight [illegible] the politicians waited upon him to know whether he would like [illegible].

When they attack him in battalions this way he [illegible]. If they come singly [illegible] for the [illegible] with the [illegible] party. 'Gentlemen will you have a [illegible]' [illegible] one of your 'great [illegible]' men who have manipulated or shared in manipulations of the administrations of [illegible] Pierce, Buchanan and [illegible] after having expatiated for an hour or so upon what ought to be done, what would be best for the party, who should be trusted and who should be discarded, meeting with no reply, only asked to take a cigar? [illegible] these statesmen usually retire in disgust, leaving Grant in the possession of his own secrets and in the quiet enjoyment of his fragrant Havana.

[illegible] GRANT BE RUN?

The unsatisfactory nature of these interviews only makes the politicians more anxious to know who is to be the right hand man of the President elect. E B Washburne is generally regarded as Grant's 'trainer,' but the question is, will he be his "second" when he is fairly within the magic ring of the White House? Washburne, to be sure, visits Grant, dines with him, drives with him and travels with him. But so does [illegible] [illegible]. The [illegible] wants [illegible] the Cabinet [illegible] make the Spirit of the Times the organ of the Administration. Bonner will be satisfied if Grant visits New York at times and drives Dexter and writes a story for the Ledger. There are some men who boast that they 'have slept with Colfax,' but no one is bold enough to say that they have occupied the same bed with Grant. I have heard men say 'I know Grant well, knew him in the army. I can talk to him etc.' but I never heard anybody say, not even E B Washburne, 'I can make Grant do this that or the other thing.' The truth is it would not be worth a man's while to make such an assertion, for no person would believe him. Grant cannot be run by any one man or indeed any set of men as will be abundantly manifest before the close of his administration.

COLFAX IN THE ADMINISTRATION

Heretofore the Vice President has with few exceptions been little more than a figure head in the Government. Nothing can make him much else except an accident as in the cases of Tyler, Fillmore and Andrew Johnson. To be sure he has, or is supposed to have, more or less influence with the Administration but it is generally exerted in a quiet way. On account of his having no patronage under his control he has usually been allowed to designate one of the Cabinet officers. This, however, is a mere matter of courtesy, there being no legal precedent for it. Hannibal Hamlin named Secretary Welles, and his choice has proved so unfortunate that future Vice Presidents may hesitate to exercise the privilege. I learn from an intimate friend of Colfax (one of the men he slept with) that he does not propose to have anything to do with the distribution of the patronage. It is questionable whether he will even avail himself of the poor privilege of naming a Cabinet officer. If the pleasant Speaker of the House wants to be President four years hence he could not pursue a wiser policy. There are at least nine thousand applicants for every office in the gift of the President. Of course but one man can get it and nine hundred and ninety nine go away not only disappointed but angry. No man understands this better than Colfax, and he is determined to disappoint the whole thousand, so that none of them can say he is partial to one more than another. This will enable him to enter the field unencumbered and with a clear record. It will be time enough for him to remember his friends when he comes into his kingdom. In these calculations however, Grant is left out of the question. If he wants to be President eight years instead of four Colfax will have to tarry at Jericho until his beard grows both longer and grayer.

THE ADMINISTRATION

One of the customs which the Democracy bequeathed the Republican party is an administration organ. Your readers, of course, are aware that this machine is somewhat different from the common street organ. But it is necessarily like that in many respects. Any newspaper which becomes the organ of an administration is expected to play only such tunes as are set for it by the President. It can have no music of its own. It is seldom, if ever, conducted by a live independent journalist. In former years, when the Democracy controlled the Treasury Department, it was a profitable business to publish the 'organ' of the administration. It was in this way that old Frank Blair made all his money. Gales & Seaton, of the Intelligencer, might have died millionaires had they employed some other clerk besides Johnny Coyle. But your Republican party is more circumspect. It draws the purse-strings of the Government more tightly, and does not keep the door leading to the Treasury vaults so much ajar. Since the Republican party came into power there has really been no administration 'organ.' During Lincoln's time it was rumored that the Chronicle reflected his views on all public questions, but this was merely a rumor. Stanton put one of its editors into the Old Capitol prison with as little ceremony as he would have hung a rebel spy. Think of General Jackson going back upon old Frank Blair in that style while he conducted the "organ" of the administration! When Andrew Johnson turned his back upon the Republican party the old Intelligencer thought the good days of Gales & Seaton had returned, and it would once more be the 'organ.' But your tireless Radicals rooted up everything that savored of the old extravagance of the Democracy. First of all, the Government printing office was established, and the thousands of fat jobs that had made more than Frank Blair rich and happy—for these were always given to the 'organ' as a sort of pocket money—disappeared. Then as if this was not a severe enough blow to private enterprise (?) Congress passed a law limiting the Government advertising to such an extent that it really amounts to very little in a year. Being an "organ" now don't pay, financially speaking. But you must not suppose that there is no paper ambitious to be Grant's "organ," not so much as for what is to be reaped at present as for what may be gleaned hereafter.

THE INDIAN SERVICE.—Discussing the proposition to transfer the Indian Bureau to the War Department, the Chicago Tribune says:

> Of the millions of dollars annually appropriated to be paid to the Indians they receive only a small proportion. In their supplies such as blankets clothing groceries, etc —they are cheated both in quantity and quality. They are never treated honestly and they soon learn to be thieves in their treatment of others. All the Indian troubles can be traced to this source—to the dishonesty of the swarm of civilians who are dependants upon the Indian Bureau. The army has to take charge of the Indians every now and then when they might at a great saving of expense be placed permanently under military supervision. An Indian war is very expensive, and we shall always have Indian war on hand while the Indian service is a vast [illegible] in which the thieves have a finger. Stop the [illegible] that is [illegible] in the annual distribution of millions of dollars among agents and traders [illegible] the Indians over to the army to be treated and fed and kept in [illegible] the only force which they [illegible] respect and we shall have peace along the whole frontier. The fact that there is such a persistent effort to keep the management of Indian affairs in a civil bureau and the details of its business in the hands of civil agents and traders shows the pertinacity with which the fat jobs of that service are clung to by all engaged in it.

[illegible] SHIELDS.—A Missouri paper tells the following story on General Shields: A few weeks since General Shields the Democratic candidate for Congress in this district advertised a meeting at New Garden a little town on the lines of Clay and Ray counties often called "Hell's Half Acre." At the proper time the meeting was organized and the chairman introduced Shields in the following manner:

"FELLOW CITIZENS.—[Applause, few of them could vote, being mostly disfranchised rebels.] Permit me to introduce to you a man whose name is a household word all over the land, a patriot of two hemispheres, a statesman [illegible] the hero of [illegible] the man who came nearer whipping Stonewall Jackson than any other man—but he didn't whip him, by a d—d sight!"

[illegible] Street [illegible] M. Fitzgerald has opened a Night [illegible] house (up stairs) near the Catholic [illegible]. For Terms [illegible] the Teacher

CHARITY.—A large class of people professing [illegible] that to be charitable [illegible] is always by giving money to the poor or assisting [illegible]. [illegible] Avarice is often [illegible] than money. For instance [illegible] in the Clothing [illegible] toward [illegible] recommend [illegible] Kuhn & Bro. [illegible] certain that [illegible] they can purchase [illegible] lowest rates and receive good goods, and where the most particular can be satisfied.

WHEAT AND FLOUR—PROSPECTIVE PRICES.—Mi[illegible] [illegible] that it is difficult to pa[illegible] wheat enough [illegible] keep their machinery running, without paying more th[illegible] the market prices, and more than the prevailing [illegible] the markets to which we export, will warrant. Th[illegible] people of the interior seem to have been seized with th[illegible] opinion that the present depressed prices are the resu[illegible] of speculative combinations among buyers; that price[illegible] must advance. If they only hold on. The [illegible] of the [illegible] of California have all along had a [illegible] stimulated by the unwise [illegible] of some of the [illegible] newspapers which insisted that if the farmers held, th[illegible] buyers must come to terms and give higher prices. Wel[illegible] the farmers have held on, just as they are now d[illegible] Oregon and yet the prices of wheat and flour hav[illegible] steadily come down and the prospects are that they w[illegible] remain at least as low as now for some months. The[illegible] are no speculators in this market, and we know of non[illegible] in the State. The buyers are exclusively millers and re[illegible] ment dealers all of whom have a direct interest [illegible] much so as the farmer in maintaining the highest possib[illegible] prices for grain or flour. But no earthly power nor an[illegible] possible amount of "holding on" can force pric[illegible] above the rates as regulated by supply and demand [illegible] the markets where we sell. San Francisco governs us, i[illegible] spite of anything we can do. New York, Liverpool and [illegible] other foreign markets, govern San Fr[illegible] in spite o[illegible] anything she can do. None of these markets are [illegible] ing anything like large supplies, nor are they paying [illegible] more than moderate prices. The [illegible] James G Weil New York, Nov 28th, says: "Calls [illegible] his flour has attracted very little attention and is heavy [illegible] A private letter from the same source, Nov 28th, to Me[illegible] Vaughn of this city says "With large arrivals of Califo[illegible] an wheat [illegible] this week, our market is very de[illegible] and coming [illegible] I think the bulk of that now on th[illegible] way nearly [illegible] half millions, will sell at about [illegible] per bushel. COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS.—The Common Council of the City of Portland met on Wednesday evening, December 23d, 1868—Mayor [illegible] in the chair.

The Board was called to order and the roll was called by the Clerk. Present—Councilmen [illegible], Brock, Burch, [illegible], Hall, [illegible], Hopkins and Porter—7. Absent, [illegible].

The Minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

PETITIONS, REMONSTRANCES, &c.

A communication was read from his Honor the Mayor stating that there had been a writ of injunction served on him out of the United States District Court, in the suit of H. C. [illegible] and wife against the city, enjoining the city from paying the interest on the [illegible] from [illegible] the tax, was read. The Mayor [illegible] recommended that the amount collected and lying in the treasury be loaned out in order that the money might earn something for the city until such time as the same may be needed.

A petition from Wiberg, Strowbridge and others praying for the passage of an ordinance for the protection of the city against small pox was read and referred to the Committee on Health and Police.

A petition was read from Messrs. Jeffrey and [illegible], praying that an appropriation be made to aid in the extension of B street, was read and filed.

A petition from J. C. Van Rensselaer and others praying for the erection of a street lamp [illegible] of Fifth and J [illegible] streets, was read and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A communication from A. G. Walling and others protesting against the construction of a sewer [illegible] street, was read, and referred to the Committee on Streets and Public Property.

A communication from W. W. Chapman was received and read, relative to the improvement of the west end of Twelfth street. It was accompanied by an ordinance.

REPORTS OF OFFICERS.

A report was read from the Chief Engineer of the Fire Department recommending that in view of the near approach of cold weather, that the fire hydrants be put in order and sundry repairs be made to the apparatus of the Fire Department. Referred to the Committee on Fire and Water.

A report was received and read from the City Attorney, relative to the injunction suit of H. C. [illegible] and wife against the city.

[illegible] the fee bills of the City Recorder, which [illegible] and referred to the Committee on Health and Police.

The resignation of J. J. Hoffman, City Recorder, was read and accepted.

A petition from the City Surveyor, asking an extension of time to complete and report the survey of the northern line of the John H. [illegible], was read and further time granted.

CLAIMS.

The following claims were reported correct by the Committee on Fire and Water: [illegible] Myers, $49 16; J. Bohmer, $9; McKin[illegible]; W. E. Cooper & Co., $1; E. Milwain, [illegible]; [illegible] Iron Works, $69 76; E. J. Northrop, [illegible] 60.

Dr. A. Chapman's bill, for attending a small [illegible] 19 days, $100, was referred to the Committee on Health and Police.

The bills of W. J. Tennant, $9; Hayden, Smith [illegible] $[illegible] 45, and A. D. Shelby, on account of [illegible] were referred to the Committee on Health and Police.

[illegible] Herald office, $37; Commercial office, [illegible]; Hayden, Smith & Co., $20 49; McCully [illegible]; [illegible] Stewart, $74 39; J. J. Hoffman, Recorder, $72 96, were paid.

[illegible] by the Committee on Streets and [illegible], John Whetler, $18 89; N. Nor[illegible] 72; Stewart & Dougherty, $27 41; [illegible], $21 60; P. G. Baker, $311 60; C [illegible]—were paid.

ORDINANCES.

[illegible] declaring a deficit for the improvement of Third, between A and Harrison streets, [illegible]

[illegible] declaring the surplus for the improvement of Harrison between Front and Fourth [illegible] read and passed.

[illegible] granting the right of way to the [illegible] Co., to lay a railroad track through [illegible], was read a second time.

[illegible] appropriating $500 to aid in the [illegible] of B street, was read and laid over.

[illegible] providing for the improvement of [illegible] end of Jefferson street, was read.

RESOLUTIONS.

[illegible] and preamble relating to the [illegible] the Recorder's office, was read and [illegible].

[illegible] instructing the Clerk to give notice [illegible] the Council proposes constructing aprons [illegible] on Front street, and on the principal [illegible], at the cost of the property adjacent, [illegible] read and adopted.

[illegible] instructing the Street Commissioner [illegible] ordinances to be enforced relative to [illegible] and good order of the streets, was adopted.

[illegible] extending a vote of thanks to J. [illegible] for the able and efficient manner in [illegible] has discharged the duties of City Recorder [illegible] so long a term, was read and unanimously adopted.

[illegible] appointed Orville Risley Recorder [illegible] occasioned by the resignation [illegible], Esq., and the appointment was [illegible] by the Council, with one dissenting [illegible].

[illegible] FLOUR—PROSPECTIVE PRICES.—Millers [illegible] it is difficult to purchase wheat enough to [illegible] running, without paying more than [illegible], and more than the prevailing prices in [illegible] to which we export will warrant. The [illegible] interior seem to have been seized with the [illegible] present depressed prices are the result [illegible] combinations among buyers; that prices [illegible] if they only hold on. The people of the [illegible] have all along had a similar idea [illegible] by the unwise advice of some of the interior [illegible] insisted that if the farmers held the [illegible] come to terms and give higher prices. Well [illegible] have held on, just as they are now doing in [illegible] yet the prices of wheat and flour have [illegible] and the prospects are that they will [illegible] as low as now for some months. There [illegible] in this market, and we know of none. The buyers are exclusively millers and [illegible] all of whom have a direct interest (as [illegible] farmer) in [illegible] the highest possible [illegible] flour. But no earthly power nor any [illegible] of "holding on" can force prices [illegible] as regulated by supply and demand. [illegible] we sell San Francisco governs us [illegible] we can do. New York, Liverpool and [illegible] govern San Francisco in spite of [illegible]. None of these markets are demanding large supplies nor are they paying [illegible] prices. The commercial review of [illegible], New York, Nov. 28th, says: "California [illegible] attracted very little attention and is heavy." [illegible] from the same source, Nov. 25th: "Mr. [illegible] city says: 'With large arrivals of California [illegible],000 this week, our market is very dull, and I think the bulk of that now on the [illegible] one and a half millions will sell at about $2. Flour is scarce and more doing in it. $7 [illegible] and $11 @ $12 [illegible] for new by steamer. [illegible] and not much coming. I look for [illegible] in price this winter.'" From this and all the [illegible] in our possession we cannot but conclude that wheat and flour are as high now as they can [illegible] within the next four months.

[illegible] FRED. CHARMAN.—We are informed that a [illegible] has been received in this city announcing the death of Fred Charman of Oregon City yesterday. The funeral will take place Friday—[illegible] morning, under the auspices of the I. O. O. F. We understand it is contemplated by the different Lodges [illegible] of the [illegible] city to attend the [illegible]. Steps have been taken to charter a boat for that [illegible]. The time of leaving will probably appear in [illegible] issue of the Evening Commercial.

[illegible] FESTIVAL.—Mr. Wadhams, superintendent of the [illegible] Sunday School, desires us to say [illegible] will have a Christmas Eve Festival at the [illegible] church, corner of Washington and Third [illegible] at 7 o'clock. The [illegible]. The [illegible] requested to be on hand punctually at [illegible].

[illegible]—We heard about forty persons yester[illegible] "I wonder if the authorities will take any [illegible] to prevent the [illegible] of small pox by the [illegible]." Forty other people answered: "I guess [illegible]." The latter forty were [illegible] about right.

[illegible]—The river has risen enough to [illegible] [illegible] dimensions down at the North [illegible], and the fun lovers are ready for a freeze as soon as the clerk of the weather can make it.

[illegible] YORK.—The bark Meadow of four hundred [illegible] of the Pioneer Line is loading at New York [illegible] direct, and will have quick dispatch. This [illegible] the fourth vessel in this line.

[illegible]—The young folks in District No. 2 are [illegible] a festival on Christmas night at the school [illegible] consist of amateur theatrical performances, [illegible], etc.

RE-OPENING OF THE [illegible] THEATER.—Mr. Lapp[illegible] informs us that [illegible] back from Salem [illegible] in a day or two will re-open the [illegible] Theater [illegible] with the Iron Mask. [illegible] the [illegible] as well [illegible] all the parties [illegible] that every [illegible] will fully appreciate and [illegible] first class place of [illegible] the expenditures [illegible]

HOTEL ARRIVALS.—In respect of travel and transient persons in this city this winter is in marked contrast with last. On Tuesday, for instance, there were not less than 20 arrivals at the Cosmopolitan, 47 at the Exchange, 34 at the Western and 41 at the New Columbian. Beside these there were probably not less than 50 at the other hotels—making a total of nearly 200 for one day, and this is but little if any above the daily average. Last winter we doubt if the daily arrivals reached an average of seventy five. The hotels were comparatively empty during the entire winter, while thus far this year they have been absolutely crowded to inconvenience.

FAT THINGS.—The meat markets of this city are being fitted up in gala style for Christmas. The most of them already have on exhibition an extraordinary number of fat [illegible], fat little pigs, fat sheep, fat beeves, fat calves and fat [illegible] too numerous to mention, [illegible]. [illegible] and unusual display just at this time [illegible] would naturally enough conclude that everybody had [illegible] for a month, and that the butchers are determined to put in repair every stomach [illegible] city within the next six days.

HOG NUISANCE.—We hear complaints from persons in the upper ward that they are pestered almost beyond endurance by hogs which are suffered to run at large. The [illegible] give fair warning, and if the owners of the swine do not take the hint to begin an aggressive warfare upon the offending animals with guns and sticks. Look out for dead hogs, some of these mornings.

RETURNED.—We are pleased to learn that Mr. J. B. Robinson, the popular comedian [illegible] of the Bates troupe has returned and will rejoin the company upon their return from Salem. Mrs. Robinson comes with him and will also take a place upon the boards. She used to be an actress [illegible] but has not been upon the stage for many years.

RAFFLES are all the go just now in all parts of the city. Among others we learn that the splendid Mexican saddle at Wm. Andrus' place is to be raffled for next Saturday evening, but we know nothing of the terms.

REHEARSAL.—The Philharmonic Society held its regular weekly rehearsal last evening, anticipating the usual time by a couple of evenings in consequence of the coming Holidays.

VACATION.—The Portland Academy dismissed its students yesterday for a vacation till the 4th of January.

TO SAIL.—The steamship Geo. S. Wright will sail for Victoria at four o'clock this evening.

FOR THE HOLIDAYS.—Handsome Dress Silks of all colors and at very much reduced prices, Magnificent Dress Goods and numerous other goods for Ladies and Gents wear, at very low prices, which everybody should examine, at KOHN & FISHEL's, No. 9 Front street.

I. O. O. F.—FUNERAL NOTICE.—Special Meeting of HASSALO LODGE, NO. 15.—The members of Hassalo Lodge, No. 15, I. O. O. F., will please meet at Odd Fellows Hall This Evening, at 7 o'clock to make arrangements to attend the Funeral of our deceased Brother, P. G. F. Charman.

By order of the N. G.

Portland, Dec. 24, 1868.

Funeral Notice.—A special session of Ellison Encampment No. 1, I. O. O. F. will be held this Thursday evening at seven o'clock. A full attendance is requested. By order of the C. P.

Dec. 24th, 1868.

GRACEFUL AND PLEASING.—Those new and beautiful styles of Fancy Bottles now so fashionable at the East can be seen at Hurgren & Shindler's. Also, many rare articles of ornament and use, for the parlor and the house.

One day while promenading the streets of the town,
With a very poor chapeau surmounting my crown,
I met an old friend whom my taste did not flatter,
For he asked me indignantly—"Who is your Hatter?"

"My good friend," I answered, "of such I have none,
'Tis long since I made the acquaintance of one;
My head gear, I know, is all going to seed,
But I'll visit your Hatter if you'll take the lead."

Agreed, he replied, as we sauntered along
And making our way through the gay busy throng,
Each puffing in silence a fragrant cigar,
We stopped at the Corner—at Muessdorffer's Bazaar!

We found the Emporium of Fashion well stored
With Hats and Caps fit for a lord;
I was speedily suited in price, fit and style,
And turned to my friend with a satisfied smile.

"Your judgment in this as in most other matters
Is unerring, for MUESSDORFFER's the Hatter of Hatters!"

Let the leader of Fashion discourse as he may,
And the Hatter whatever he pleases can say,
But Corner Morrison and Front streets always for me!
For MUESSDORFFER, the Hatter of Portland is he!

HATS! HATS! HATS!

ANNUAL GRAND OPENING

SANTA CLAUS' BUDGET!

McCORMICK'S BOOK STORE!

WHERE MY

HEAD-QUARTERS!

HAVE BEEN ESTABLISHED

For the past Seven Years,

AND WHERE

I WILL HOLD MY ANNUAL CARNIVAL

DURING THE COMING FESTIVAL

THAT ALL MAY OBSERVE

The Christmas and New Year's

HOLIDAYS!

I herewith issue my Annual

PROCLAMATION!!!

Dear Parents and Children, once more I appear
And wish you a good Christmas and Happy New Year!
I've brought you glad tidings—I've opened once more
My Budget of Wonders—at McCormick's Book Store!
I've spread out my treasures, so give me a call
And view the fine GIFTS I've procured for you all.
My Presents this year were conveyed to the town
By Mercer's new clipper, the swift Sallie Brown.
The stock's most complete. The assortment comprises
Curiosities rare, of all shapes and all sizes.
I've Dollies that [illegible]—I've Babies that dance,
(Some very handsome I purchased in France;)
I've Fish that can swim! I've Waiters who strive
To crow so like nature you'd think they're alive!
I've Guns, and I've Cannon—I've neat Savings Banks,
And Soldiers that look very neat when in ranks.
I've Puzzles and Pistols. Then Christmas to keep,
I've Candles, Reflectors and Brackets—a heap!
I've beautiful Baskets (a nice gift for Ma,)
And hands me Cigar Stands—just suited for Pa.
While there's nothing so welcome to uncle or aunt,
As a beautiful portrait of President Grant.
I've Work Boxes—handsome as ever were made—
With ladies utensils all nicely arrayed.
I've nice setts of China—I've Vases of Flowers,
And Musical Boxes that play at all hours.
I've Furniture, Villages, Steamboats, and Blocks,
That gay little joker, called Jack-in-the-Box!
I've Tables, and Dressers for China or delf,
I've nice Warfare, that you play by yourself!
I've new Magic Lanterns, a beautiful sight
To make all good children merry at night.
For girls at [illegible] I've a nice Skipping Rope,
And for family fun I've the new Zoetrope!
I've Games that [illegible] not, and Books that [illegible],
For Gifts to good people I never refuse.
In fine, I've got all that each heart could desire,
To name them all over your patience I'd tire,
But call on me early, or call on me late
I'll visit your houses all over this State—
In Washington's clime—up in young Idaho—
I'm sure to find children wherever I go,
I've travelled for years—you all must remember
I'll be Sixty-nine at the end of December.
My hair is all white, and my body doth tend
To the latest sensation—the new Grecian bend!
On Christmas-Eve night, as in bed you all sleep
With pack on my back down each chimney I'll creep,
I'll lay out my Presents, but oh! 'twill be shocking,
Should I find a hole in any one's stocking!
So, for HOLIDAY GOODS—for Dolls sweet as honey,
Go to McCORMICK'S—you'll save half your money!
Nice Presents or Gifts—any kind you require,
You'll find at the "FRANKLIN"—(the number enquire)
On FRONT STREET, Near Alder—105,
In fact you can't miss it—and when you arrive,
Don't ask goods at cost for you'll find, if you try,
That goods sold "at cost" always cost very high!
But to purchasers all, this maxim I'd give
Live well yourself and thus let others live!

{L. S.} Given at my Palace in Wonderland this 7th day of the Twelfth month being the second year of the reign of the third George in the land of Webfoot.

G. VENARD,

CHARTRES COFFEE!

Manufactory Established in June, 1851.

STEAM POWER, NOS 625 AND 627 FRONT ST

HAS CONSTANTLY ON HAND GROUND AND ROASTED COFFEE, GREEN COFFEE of the best qualities, CREAM OF TARTAR and SPICES of all sorts.

The undersigned who has always enjoyed public confidence for the excellent quality of his Coffee neglects nothing to justify the good name acquired by his productions, the sale of which daily increases. The acknowledged superiority of his merchandise which commands here and in the markets of the interior, a relatively higher price, excites the cupidity of some manufacturers, and every day he sees increasing the number of those who by counterfeit or imitation of his mark, seek to deceive the public, palming upon them their inferior productions for the genuine G. VENARD CHARTRES COFFEE. This fraud can deceive nobody after a trial but only adds to the favorable opinion of the consumers the very flattering though unwilling testimony of the counterfeiters. Nevertheless buyers should be forewarned and placed on their guard against this practice.

BEWARE OF COUNTERFEITS.

Each package bears the signature of G. VENARD.

So all through your beautiful dreaming
The voice of your mother shall [illegible]
Lest hearing the harpings celestial
Your soul should fly homeward [illegible] sleep

The Bird

Jules Michelet's work on The Bird has been translated into English and published in London and New York Here are some charming extracts from it

MATERNAL PRESCIENCE

"Let us take the egg in our hands This elliptical form at once the most easy of comprehension, the most beautiful, and presenting the fewest salient points to external attack gives one the idea of a complete miniature world of a perfect harmony, from which nothing can be taken away and to which nothing can be added No inorganic [illegible] adapts this perfect form I conceive that, under its apparent inertness, it holds a high mystery of life, and some accomplished work of God What is it and what should issue from it? I know not But she knows well—yon [illegible] creature who with outstretched wings embraces it, and matures it with her warmth she who until now the free queen of the air lived at her own wild will but suddenly fettered sits motionless on that mute object which one would call a stone, and which, as yet gives no revelation

"Yes, that mother knows and sees distinctly by means of the penetration and clairvoyance of love. Through the thick calcareous shell where your rude hand perceives nothing she feels, by a [illegible] tact, the mysterious being which she nourishes and forms. It is this feeling which sustains her during the arduous labor of incubation—[illegible] her protracted captivity She sees it, delicate and charming in its soft down of infancy, and she predicts, with the vision of hope, that it will be vigorous and bold when with outspread wings it shall dive the sun and breast the storm

This is a pretty conceit even if it does sound like nonsense to us who fancy we have such a clear idea of the distinction between reason and instinct, and this same conceit of maternal love for the embryonic young is still more prettily brought out by the author's description of the nest of aquatic birds—

"O wonder of maternity! Through its influence the rudest woman becomes artistic, tenderly beautiful But the female is always heroic It is one of the most affecting spectacles to see the bird of the eider—duck—plucking the down from its breast for a couch and a covering for its young And, if a man steals the nest the mother still continues upon herself the cruel operation When she has stripped off every feather when there is nothing more to despoil but the flesh and the blood, the father takes his turn so that the little ones are clothed of themselves and their substance—by their devotion and their suffering Montaigne [illegible] of a cloak which had served his father and which he loved to wear in remembrance of him, makes use of a tender phrase which this poor mother's [illegible] to my mind 'I wrapped my self up in my father'"

ON THE WING

"The bird's lung, elastic and powerful quaffs the air, grows full of it grows intoxicated with vigor and delight, pours it abundantly into its bones, into its aerial cells Each respiration is [illegible] after second, with tremendous rapidity. The blood, [illegible] vivified with [illegible] each muscle with that [illegible] energy which no other being possesses which belongs only to the elements.

"Far more powerful in voice and respiration than the lion, is the little lark that mounts up ward [illegible] its song, and makes itself heard when it is to be seen no longer. Its light and joy [illegible], afforded without fatigue and costing nothing [illegible] the bliss of an invisible spirit, which [illegible] the earth Strength [illegible] joy The happiest of beings is the bird [illegible] itself strong beyond the limits of its [illegible] because, cradled, sustained by the [illegible] of heaven, it floats, it rises without effort [illegible] The boundless strength, the ex[illegible] faculty, obscure among inferior beings in the bird clear and vital, of deriving at will its vigor from the maternal source of drinking in life at full tide, is a divine intoxication

"The [illegible] of every human being—a tendency wholly natural, not arrogant, not impious —is to liken itself to Nature, the great mother [illegible] after her image, to carve a share of the unwearied with which eternal love broods over the world. Human tradition is fixed in this [illegible]. Man does not wish to be a man, but [illegible], a winged deity. The soul gives utterance to a prayer breathed in the very depths of [illegible] and her prophetic ardor 'Oh! that I were a bird,' said [illegible]. Dreams or realities? Winged visions, raptures of the night, which we shall weep so bitterly in the morning! If you really were! If, indeed, ye lived! If we had lost [illegible] of the masses of our regret! If, from [illegible], resulted and launched on an eternal flight, we all [illegible] formed in companionship a happy pilgrimage through the illimitable.

"At [illegible], one is apt to believe it Something which [illegible] that these dreams are not all dreams but glimpses of a world of truth—momentary [illegible] through these lower clouds—certain proof as to be hereafter fulfilled while the pretended reality it is that should be stigmatised as a foul delusion."

PROSPECTUS

OF THE

Weekly Oregonian.

FOR 1869.

Nineteenth Volume!

Only $3.00 a Year.

By common consent the OREGONIAN ranks first among the papers published in the Northwest It is the oldest paper in the State and its circulation and influence are greater than that of any other two papers combined As a journal of enterprise in gathering the latest intelligence, and in giving in each issue a larger amount and greater variety of reading matter it has no competitor It is thoroughly identified with this city and State and neighboring Territories where the number of its readers and its influence are constantly increasing

An unflinching advocate of sound Union principles it at the same time pays special attention not only to MATTERS OF GENERAL INTEREST but to every thing of moment to the great

Agricultural, Manufacturing,

AND MINING INTERESTS,

And to the development of the resources and settlement of the Northwest

Its columns contain a carefully prepared digest of

NEWS FROM ALL PARTS

Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana,

TELEGRAMS FROM

THE EAST AND EUROPE

are published as full as in the California journals and put before our readers from ONE TO THREE DAYS BEFORE ANY OTHER PAPER IN THE STATE.

Among the corps of writers are regular correspondents at New York and Washington City men who, having lived in this State are able to write on Eastern affairs, both politically and commercially from an Oregon standpoint

Its Literary and General Selections are from the best sources

EXTENDED AND RELIABLE

Commercial Reports

are furnished every week giving the Financial, Dry Goods Hardware and General Market Reports of Portland and the latest reports by Telegraph of the San Francisco and New York markets These reports are acknowledged to be the most accurate published in the State

In every department it will be, as it has been, the foremost in the State in the field of journalism Being firmly established it will go forward with confidence making new plans for improvement and usefulness, and hopes to gain increased circulation and support.

TERMS:

One Year	$3 00.
Six Months	2 00.
Three Months	1 00.

The WEEKLY OREGONIAN has been a favorite paper for mailing to friends in the East It will be mailed from the office at subscription rates

Subscribers will find on each paper with their names, the date on which their subscriptions expire, as entered in our books In renewing, the name of subscriber and post office should be distinctly written

All papers are discontinued at the end of the time for which they have been paid the date of which is always printed with the name each week

REMIT BY MAIL AT OUR RISK in presence of Postmaster or pay to the nearest authorized agent

We ask our friends to aid us in extending the circulation of the OREGONIAN in every direction
